

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An identification of data sent from the sender is attached automatically to the data by a sending information managing section (11b2).

- 5 Or, in the occasion when the communication device is made up for attaching such kind of identification by itself; the function of this avails the present invention. And, printing out the same data sent by the sender itself is controlled, when the same data is detected with the identification.